

iGolf Makes Ballyneal Caddies GPS Enabled

Exclusive golf course teams up with iGolf to enhance player experience

San Diego, California, May, 11, 2007 – iGolf, maker of the award winning GPS Caddie, has formed a partnership with the Ballyneal Golf Club in Colorado. All caddies at Ballyneal have been outfitted with the handheld GPS devices, enabling them to provide golfers with quick and accurate distance measurements for every shot on the course by using the latest in GPS technology.

“We are excited to have iGolf on board,” said Eric Peterson, General Manager & Head Golf Professional at Ballyneal. “since we are a walking-only course, visitors rely on our caddies for reliable course advice. iGolf’s GPS technology, combined with our caddies’ knowledge of the course, will give visitors an unparalleled golf experience at Ballyneal.”

In addition to providing the distances to the green, the Caddie allows users to add up to eight custom points per hole and measure the distances of drives and other shots during the round. The GPS Caddie retails for $229.99 and is available at www.iGolf.com and retailers across the country.

About Ballyneal Golf Club

Set among the prairies of Northeastern Colorado, the Tom Doak designed course opened in September 2006 to rave reviews. The links style course draws comparisons to the courses of the old world, while its wide open fairways, treacherous natural bunkers and large, wavy greens challenge golfers mentally as well as physically.
